Overview

The Natick Conservation Commission's mission is to serve as the conservation conscience of the town, providing community leadership for natural resources planning. By coordinating closely with Town agencies, boards, and commissions related to town development, the commission works to protect, and where possible, enhance, plant and wildlife habitats.

This is crucial in maintaining our natural resources and preserve the quality of life for inhabitants of Natick. The commission strives to keep informed of advances in the field of environmental protection and of the actives of neighboring conservation commissions to maintain current and regional perspectives on environmental matters.
